

“Thank you for many things:

lowercase w Wonderful food, attention to me as a person, a place to omit hyphen de-compress, kindness, a non-airport feeling.”

I would re-write this paragraph. "Feeling" is an emotion, "feel" plays more into ambiance and atmosphere which is what I think you're wanting to convey. Besides, one cannot have a "non-airport feeling" -- but, HMSHost can provide a "non-airport feel". So here is how I would write the whole paragraph: "Thank you for many things: wonderful food, kindness, attention to me as a person and a place to decompress by providing a non-airport feel."

Offering a lively blend of foods with signature flavors, HMSHost brings more to the table.

HAS MORE SIZZLE

Making the Traveler's Day Better™

www.hmshost.com